New York

NEW YORK, April 6.—Liquidation and short selling continued with increased vigor and breadth in the stock market yesterday in the further absence of public support. Heaviness of investment rails was a striking feature, giving rise to reports of a recurrence of foreign offerings.

Grain and Produce.

CHICAGO, April 6.—Wheat values whirled upward yesterday 5 cents above previous top records, impelled in a great degree by disturbing crop reports from Kansas and Nebraska and by Washington news of proposed immediate war appropriations that aggregated billions. The market closed flurried at net advances of 3 1/2 to 5 1/2 cents, with May at $2.05 1/2 to 2.06 and July at $1.75 1/2 to 1.76 1/2. Corn finished 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 cents up and oats gained 1/2 to 1 1/2 cents. In provisions there was an ascent ranging from 20 to 65 cents.

On Warriors Fork, of Buffalo Creek, Mannington district, Marion county, W. Va., the Carter Oil company drilled a second test on the Rachel Evans farm into the Maxon sand and it shows for an eight or ten barrel pumper from that level. One-half mile above the mouth of Bartholomew Run, on Buffalo Creek, in the same district, the Duval Oil company cleaned out an

Judge and Wife Write Play Based on Juvenile Court

MRS. BENJ. B. LINDSEY.

DENVER, Col., March 15.—Denver awaits a sensation equal to that produced by "The Beast and the Jungle" when a play, written by Judge and Mrs. Ben Lindsey, is produced at the Denham the week of March 25.

Lindsey is the "kids' judge" whose juvenile court methods have made Denver a laboratory for court work among boys, being copied in all parts of the earth.

The Lindsey play will be based on actual cases in the juvenile court, touching on the efforts of the "system" to oust Lindsey and nullify the work of other reformers, such as George Creel, novelist and former police commissioner.

"The Greater Love" is the title; the action centers about a famous murder trial, and the characters all are Denver people thinly veiled.

Critics of the play believe after the furor certain to greet it here, New York managers will get it. Two previous plays by Lindsey have already been sold to New York producers.

old well on the Kendall heirs' farm, drilled by another company about 13 years ago, and it is producing four barrels a day from the 30-foot sand. There is a good deal of this kind of work going on in all of the old districts. This well was drilled at a time when the market was low and it was not considered a paying producer. At the present time no wells are abandoned if they show oil, even as low as a fraction of a barrel. In the shallow sand districts operators are drilling for wells that do not have an initial production of more than one barrel.

In the Dents Run pool shooting has brought some of the wells back to a production of 50 or more barrels a day. P. W. Bartlett's Nos. 3 and 7 on the Z. E. Batson farm are producing 275 and 55 barrels, respectively. The Delmar Oil company's Nos. 24 and 27, John L. Hays farm, are producing 50 and 60 barrels, respectively. In the same district the South Penn Oil company has started to drill No. 4 on the J. L. Rex farm. The Carter Oil company is due in the sand at a second test on the E. Hays farm.

In Grant district, Doddridge county, the Hope Natural Gas company's test on the H. B. Taylor farm is a small gasser in the Big Injun sand. In the same district the same company is drilling a test on the J. W. Ball farm. In Ten Mile district, Harrison county, the same company has put its test on the E. H. Flanagan farm at pumping. It is a light producer in the Maxon sand. In Greenbrier district, Doddridge county, the Castle Brook Carbon company's test on the George Norman farm is a gasser in the Gantz sand.

PITTSBURGER'S TO COME IN BIG TRAIN

Want to Talk Over Business Conditions With Local People.

Confident that the future prosperity of the nation is assured for a long time to come, Edward C. Sykes, representing the Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh, arrived here today to consult with the Fairmont Chamber of Commerce officials regarding the coming of the members of the Pittsburgh organization to this place May 15 to talk over the business outlook. The party will arrive at 4:10 p. m. and will leave at 6 p. m. the same day.

There will be about 125 members in the party representing many of Pittsburgh's leading banks, wholesale and jobbing and manufacturing concerns, together with a corps of newspapermen representing that city's newspapers. They are not coming to solicit business but to discuss trade conditions. They desire to meet Fairmont bankers and merchants and to get better acquainted with them in their home environment.

The delegation will travel in their own special train of 12 Pullman cars, the largest ever assembled for a trip of this kind. The fact that so many are taking advantage of this, the seventeenth tour that has been made by the Pittsburgh organization, is looked upon as a distinct compliment to the business men of this section. The Pittsburghers desire to foster the mutual trade which has existed between the Pittsburghers and the merchants of this place and feel confident that a personal visit will bind closer the long friendship that has existed. Pittsburgh is a large customer of the resources of this district and the visitors want to know the merchants here better.

norant of the fundamental principles of child study and develops the subject matter in a logical fashion so as to catch nothing. To his partial payments and due root are sacred objects of achievement. The professional teacher believes in social efficiency and aims to make the school of real service to the community—not only to the pupils, but also to the parents. Social center meetings are held, thrift campaigns are conducted, libraries are established, boys' and girls' clubs are organized, in short, every kind of community activity is promoted and encouraged by the school. The non-professional teacher has no grasp of this broader view of education and confines herself to activities within the school room.

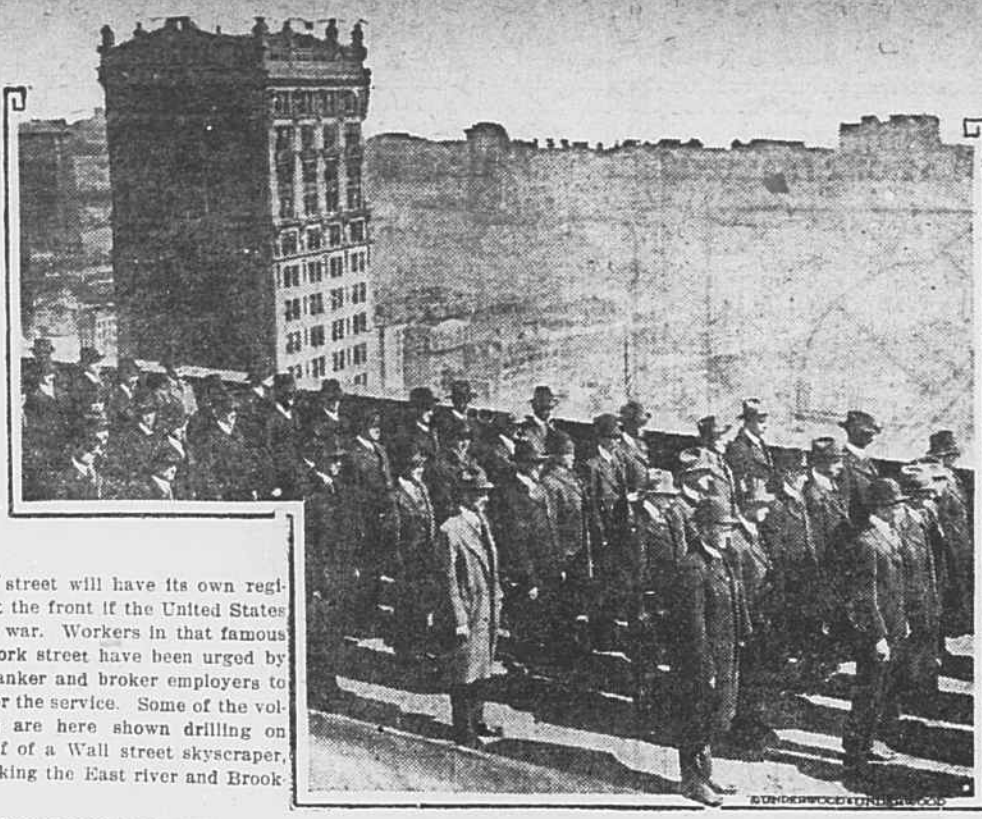

"The normal school is strictly a vocational school, in that it prepares teachers directly for the vocations they expect to enter. The normal school attempts to make psychology and pedagogy and other kindred subjects contribute directly to the teaching profession. The school is not theoretical—it is practical; it is not experimental, but one in which students are taught the results of experimentation. The school is as strictly vocational as the law college, the medical college or the engineering college. It attempts not only to give an academic background for teaching, but a professional one as well. Its graduates have been trained not only in the theory of education, but also in the practice of it. The observation class and the practice teaching class afford abundant opportunity for the development of the professional teacher under expert supervision.

"The time is not far distant when all teachers in West Virginia will be obliged to have had one or two years of professional work before they are permitted to experiment upon boys and girls in the school room. In fact, the Commissioner of Education, P. P.

WALL STREET WORKERS TRAIN FOR SERVICE ON SKYSCRAPER ROOF!

Wall street will have its own regiment at the front if the United States goes to war. Workers in that famous New York street have been urged by their banker and broker employers to train for the service. Some of the volunteers are here shown drilling on the roof of a Wall street skyscraper, overlooking the East river and Brooklyn.

Claxton, has recommended this requirement to the states on numerous occasions. Many of our teachers last year in their institute resolutions recommended that the legislature pass a law requiring at least one or two years in normal school or high school work of teachers who apply for a certificate. We are not ready for this radical move yet in West Virginia. Undoubtedly, if this law were enacted, we would not have at present enough teachers to fill all positions, but with the spread of our high schools and expansion of our normal school courses and the popularity of our summer schools, the time is not far distant when such a law will be enacted."
